

TITANIC: Save Our Souls

Role Descriptions

Only the game master should read all roles, as some contain secrets. For the game preparation print and cut these out. The role descriptions are paired, so give them to the players, when the pairing has been done.

There are two slips per couple. One slip for each player. The slip contains three parts:

1. Information about the couple, that is identical on both slips.
2. Personal information, that might contain secrets. To be kept secret or shared with the partner at the players discretion
3. Options to document the situation of the character at the end of act 2.

There are 10 archetypes available, and 20 pairings created from that. The first 10 pairings are with mostly dominant male roles, while the last 10 are gender reversed with mostly dominant female roles. There are 10 first class pairings 10 third class pairings.

Additionally, there is a menage-a-trois pairing, if you have an uneven number of players. Find the triple pairing between the two blocks.

NOTE: Advise players to keep role slips!

When you distribute the slips, please remind the players to keep their personal role slip safely, as it will be needed to gather the information how they ended up act 2 later. Without the slip the procedure of gathering the survival list will take much longer.

NOTE: Have the checklist of Survival ready after act 2!

At the end of the document, there is a checklist of all roles, where you can note how they ended up in scene 2, and the result of the assessment, who died. Those who died will be announced during act 3.

The Aristocrats – 1st Class Passengers – Pair Info

Visiting the old colonies is a nuisance and family necessity. Since you were young, times have changed, and not for the best. It's a pity, that there is no more respect for the aristocracy and the old values that made England great.

1) The Duke – Lord Roderick Duke of Farnham – Personal Info

Traits: Guardian of morality, arrogant, holier-than-you

Relationship: Respect is the foundation. Respect must be earned through integrity.

Survival: Discipline and integrity must be preserved, at any cost, even if that's my life
